Cornwall's History & Timeline

His body was returned to for burial. He was apprenticed to the marine painter Samuel Scott, in whose London studio in Covent Garden he trained for five years from 1754 to 1759 and from whom he learned to paint carefully observed London scenes and river views in oil and watercolour which, like his teacher's works, clearly show the influence of Canaletto on English topographical painting at the time. His son gave the roofless remains of the building to the corporation of Bath in 1572.
