International trade

A more cooperative and less nationalistic attitude must be developed by the various member countries if the Group is to be successful.

The Andean pact: A model of economic integration for developing countries

On May 26 the heads of state of five Andean countries—Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Venezuela 1—celebrated in Cartagena Colombia the tenth anniversary of the so-called Cartagena Agreement which forms the legal base of economic integration within this Latin American subregion. Mezzera, The Common External Tariff and Job Creation in the Andean Group, in: International Labour Review, Vol.

Principal Contributions to the Problems of Distribution and Allocation

The book provides quantitative analysis of progress and economic costs and benefits of the economic integration among the countries of the Andean Group. The last part, which is comprised of the last remaining four chapters, covers the attitudes of those involved in the integration process. The Andean Common Market was formed in response to the inadequacies of the Latin American Free Trade Association.
