Technical colleges and further education

The TAFE sector is the largest education and training sector in Australia. The volume of EQA activity will vary and depends on a variety of factors.

Technical colleges and further education

Day continuation schools The 1918 and 1921 Education Acts provided for compulsory part-time attendance at day continuation schools by school-leavers between 14 and 18. They can describe their experience, any accreditation they offer, their reach across the sector, provide an organisational structure and the role of industry boards or committees they may use. We also expect that the employer directory bodies will provide feedback and insight out to employers in their sector disseminating findings from EQA providers including in the form of sector-specific reports.

History of technical and further education in Western Australia

In 1967 the Haslegrave Committee was appointed to review this system. The information given is supplied by the organizations themselves. To view records which are not online you will need to visit or.
