Streets Ahead

The people whose job it was to call out the news started from the Town hall and moved outwards. This is odd in that I was aware of the figure of speech. Just as the stock-in-trade of a stationer is stationery, of an ironmonger is ironmongery, of a haberdasher is haberdashery, so the stock-in-trade of a jeweller is jewellery.

Streets ahead

In my mind, it would be comparable to this: In the US, we call them advertisements. This computer system is certainly streets ahead in terms of cost and performance. The OED meaning and examples are: c.

Streets Ahead

The British press went to town making fun of such a quaint and pompous expression still in use in America. There are no examples outside the British Isles.
