All Roads Don't Lead to Brussels (But Most Do): European Integration and Transatlantic Relations

In October of 2000, first-ever democratic municipal elections were held, a key step toward establishing responsible and accountable local leadership. We have no choice but to straighten it out. Iran While Ukraine is now a critical focus of U.

Trump, Brexit and the Transatlantic Relationship: The New Paradigms of the Trump Era

The air campaign, the first in NATO's history, convinced the Bosnian Serbs that the United States and its allies would respond with force to their repeated violations of UN resolutions. The United States wants therefore to continue to reach out to Europe, to strengthen our relationships with our allies and partners, and to support and bring prosperity and stability to new European states as well. Therefore, it is quite possible that the
