116th Final Report

The second Joint Committee on the Organization of Congress was made up of six Senators and six Representatives, equally divided by party, and met from March 1965 through September 1965. ## 116th Final Report

For the 116th Congress, Rodney serves on the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee and is Ranking Member of the Subcommittee on Highways and Transit, which is the largest subcommittee in Congress and will be a key player in any infrastructure bill Congress passes. Second, as for facilities, the Commission concluded that the House lacked adequate space for its growing needs. Finally, this chapter concludes by considering ways to combat the repercussions of past transparency reforms—namely a decline in confidential and substantial policy negotiations between Members, and an increase in congressional partisanship in public.

Recommendation

Our guiding principle was to make Congress work better for the American people. Born and raised in Port Angeles, Derek saw firsthand how the region's economy has struggled, and the impact that has had on families and communities. He is a member of the House Committee on Financial Services; Chair of the subcommittee on National Security, International Development, and Monetary Policy; member of Subcommittee on Housing, Community Development and Insurance; member of the House Committee on Homeland Security; member of the Subcommittee on Transportation and Maritime Security; and member of the Select Committee on the Modernization of Congress.

Recommendations

Under the current schedule, Members spend more time flying in and out of DC than they do legislating.
