While we might constantly see headlines and TV shows suggesting benefit fraud and dependency is rife, the statistics simply do not fit that narrative.

America's Most Trusted Allies Regret Saying 'Yes' to China

Chinese confidence is reflected in their approval of the central government, although it is difficult to judge the reliability of this data, especially since many Chinese people may be fearful of expressing critical views of their leaders and government. He later visited the country in 1986. As Māori was a tribal-level society of many shifting chiefdoms, relationships with Europeans were ad hoc and informal.
