State and trend assessment

As small amounts of aid are unlikely to distort competition, a useful approved EU mechanism for State aid is the industrial de minimis regulation which allows small amounts of aid i. We will help to safeguard the wonders of nature for their own sake. These predictions can also be accessed from our mobile website or by calling our Beachline service on 03000 99 66 99.

MORE OF SCOTLAND'S BATHING WATERS RATED AS 'EXCELLENT' AS THE 2019 SEASON BEGINS

Like many of our natural resources our rivers are under pressure and in places, damaged. This is done through River Basin Management Plans RBMPs. Useful contacts DPMG - ensures that actions to reduce diffuse pollution are managed effectively by working together with rural, environmental and biodiversity groups.

Indicator 6: Freshwater

We must maintain effective working relationships with partners, water users and land managers to reduce or remove potential sources of harm.

The Environment Strategy for Scotland: vision and outcomes

The condition of many upland habitats is beginning to improve as action is taken to protect and manage them. Ministerial Foreword We have a clearer picture than ever before of the crises in our climate and our natural world.

Water environment fund

We continue to work with our partners to raise all sites to the sufficient or better classification and to make our summer visits to the beach safer and more enjoyable. We all have a part to play in its protection and conservation. This network allows us to inform the public about current bathing water quality and to advise of potentially poorer quality following a short-term pollution event.

Water

Land also stores carbon and supports a wide range of habitats and species. The water environment provides many services and benefits that are either essential to us or that enrich our lives.
