In the great masters of pictorial composition--Michael Angelo, Veronese, Tintoretto, and Rubens--the passion and tumult of the work resides solely in the conception; the execution is always calculated, and the result is perfectly predetermined and accurately foreseen. STUTTIG while to strive to accomplish with so much effort and trouble what a painter could do more quickly and easily, and incomparably better.

N Mchtyre, Ben Foster, Arthur P. Whistler etched the view of the eastern extremity of the island, for many lines on the rocky shore resemble the work in the French series, and also the two flights of birds which, though they enliven the design, have no topographical value. The deco- rative arts taught will include embroidery, wood- carving, architectural stone carving, stained glass, book illustration, writing and illumination, leather tooling, lithography and lithographic printing, etching, wood-cutting, and wood-block printing ; and there is a house-painting and decoration class.
