MR FITZGERALD: My Lord, yes.

The Most Powerful Person in a Child Custody Case Isn't the Judge

So, my Lord, in the only case with which I have experience, it is right that the application was made under the Prosecution of Offences Act, and I believe that -- I am not sure what happened in the House of Lords, because they petitioned, but the House of Lords refused the US petition, whether they ordered it against the US Government or not.

How Living Accommodations Impact Child Custody

Principle 20 stipulates that they are entitled to the best available mental health care, and to all the rights specified in the Principles, 'with only such limited modifications and exceptions as are necessary in the circumstances'.

Parenting Orders A parenting order is a set of orders made by a court about parenting arrangements for a child. While tough to admit, parents finding themselves unwilling to compromise when it comes to their shared parenting arrangements may be placing the needs of their children on the back burner.
