The Life of Sophia Jex

Even the Chinese many, many centuries ago used the Square to represent Good, and Confucius in his writings speaks of the Square to represent a Just man. In 1867 a very few churches owned any property.

Practical wisdom in complex medical practices: a critical proposal

May we be ever mindful that the first great care of Masons is to see that the Lodge of The Nation is duly tiled to the end that all cowans may be kept out. For the people in their ethnic group, the prefix Mwa- is dropped when surnames are used for girls.

The Life of Sophia Jex

Colonialism robbed the people of their natural right to live in a state of independence which is itself a state of nature even in political and social organisations formed by the people themselves, not just in a state of nature before the formation of social and political states and institutions which only validated and legitimised the natural state of independence of individuals and communities. It is not an unusual impression among members of the profession that the more practice a man does and the more hospital appointments he holds, the more likely is he to gain that larger wisdom which enables him to diagnose readily and with assurance and so to be of special service in consultation.

Ernest Rutherford

Now tomorrow we are going to make a visit to England, and we will ask the children to find out how long it will take us to get there; and whether we go by land or sea; and what great city should we go to see when we get there; how we should get across the great Atlantic Ocean; how many miles wide it is, what city we would start from on this side, and what line of steamships would we take and why; the different kind of sailing vessels. In retrospect, its origins can be seen in the slight evidences of alpha particle scattering in thin metal foils or sheets of mica, which he noticed while at McGill, and in similar scattering by air molecules in his later electrical counting experiments with Geiger. He currently serves on the Board of Directors of Xoma Corporation.
