Stoke Row Census Return, 1871

No 25: Jacob Clargo, Bricklayer - this house is 'Meadow side', the right-hand of a pair of Victorian cottages, the first, on the right-hand side, in Busgrove Lane. Beazley Year: 1908 Publisher: Anguline Published in 1908, 'Notes on the Parish of Burton in Wirral' by F. Jacob Clargo No 29 was a Bricklayer and worked on the Cherry Tree extension and John Godwin was a Builder, employing 7 men and 2 boys, so there was a great deal of building work going on then.

Notes on the Parish of Burton in Wirral

No 46: The famous James Cox, renowned as a builder, undertaker, major local employer for many years and father of eight children.

PLACE AND FIELD Names, Cookham Parish, Berks Ms Notes

No 39: Charles Neate's wife, Ann was listed as a Shoe Binder, but this was scratched through, as wives were not normally shown as workers or she may have ceased to carry on this trade. No 23: John Francis, Blacksmith - this was almost certainly what today is known as Cherry Tree Cottage in Newlands Lane, which was originally the local Forge.

More people were now coming into the village and James Cox, the builder, No 46 was already employing 4 men and 1 boy.

Collection: Notes from the parish of Wolvercote, near Oxford (births, marriages and deaths), 1596

No 19: The youngest child, a boy, is named as 'Baby'; he was just 3 weeks old and obviously they had not yet chosen a name for him! No 30: Rebecca Pearce and her daughter, Mary, were Lacemakers. Two girls, both named Mary! No 63: George Holland, aged 29, a Woodman, is listed as suffering with Paralysis - perhaps he was injured whilst at work? They had come from Great Missenden in Bucks, which was a lace-making centre. The notes say 'All that part of the Parish of Ipsden which is on the East side and Eastward of the road leading from Nuffield to Checkendon, including the Cottages adjoining the above Road on the West side thereof situated near Scot's, the whole of this district forms part of the Consolidated Chapelry of Stoke Row.
