Lower Fort Garry National Historic Site of Canada Management Plan 2018

Without belabouring the point, many Aboriginal communities prefer that sites of deep spiritual and community significance are not turned into tourist attractions.

Lower Fort Garry: Life in the Canadian Fur Trade Era

Many fur trade historic sites attract limited numbers of visitors because of their remote locations, York Factory for example, but Fort Edmonton Park and Old Fort William both attract 100,000 visitors or more a year according to site materials. Visitor experience resources including the various facilities are also important resources considered in the assessment. In 1871 and 1872, the crimes listed involved horse theft, petty larceny, theft, and breaking and entering.

The Capture of Fort Garry

As the Minister responsible for Parks Canada, I applaud this collaborative effort and I am pleased to approve the Lower Fort Garry National Historic Site of Canada Management Plan.

200 Years of the Hudson's Bay Company, Lower Fort Garry

Andrews Rectory, Riel House, Prince of Wales Fort and York Factory National Historic Sites.

Gather 'Round: History comes to life at Lower Fort Garry

Although Coyne and Howay consulted the historical profession across the west, these two men largely controlled the agenda and priorities for the commemoration of western Canadian sites so that, while there was broad consensus as to the significance of most of the sites they proposed, the selected sites also reflect the particular historiographical twist given them by Coyne and Howay. Winnipeg is the meeting place of two rivers: the Red River and the Assiniboine River.

It flooded out spectacularly, and so George Simpson governor of the HBC moved it to the current site today. Lower Fort Garry is a preserved fur trading post that once belonged to the Hudson's Bay Company a chain of department stores now owned by a U. An NWMP detachment had represented Canada in London at in 1897.

Consequently, Letendre was granted a pardon by the Governor General in January 1873 on the condition of his exile from Canada until the expiry of the 20-year sentence. The site is a place for First Nations and Métis people to share their history and stories with visitors in an authentic way and build understanding. It has all the advantages mentioned above, plus users to your site can conveniently access it directly on your site.

In later years, Fort Langley emerged as a significant supplier of salmon and agricultural products for the fur trade, but once again this was important but hardly a nationally significant contribution to trade operations. The tendency to either blame or credit for virtually everything that happened in the fur trade from 1821 to 1860 is perhaps the most extreme manifestation of this tendency. As a result, it was the locale of these places rather than their significance to fur trade history that governed the development of programs of first person animation, building restoration and reconstruction, exhibits and interpretive centres at these sites in the 1950s and 1960s.
