Letting Grief Come to Church

While I am genuinely excited for the return to gathered worship and face-to-face interactions at church, I am anxious, too. Please contact or to set up a mutually convenient time for a telephone conversation. No one goes through life without grief.

Bereavement Ministry Training

It's also natural to begin to feel somewhat better. Offering tangible care will provide comfort when those who grieve feel most alone, when it feels as though everyone else has moved on.

5 Ways Jesus Handled Ministry and Grief

Tears don't seem to stop.

5 Reasons Your Parish Should Have a Bereavement Ministry

The faithfulness and deep spiritual needs expressed by the members of our group inspired and comforted me. Put yourself in Jesus' shoes for a second. The leader guide offers suggestions on forming and sustaining grief ministry, how-tos for promoting, planning, and facilitating a successful group experience, and suggestions for creating a group to serve several churches or community programs.

Bereavement Ministry Training

Losing someone suddenly can be extremely traumatic, though, no matter how old that person is.

How To Minister To Someone Who Is Grieving

If you think you may be interested in attending a support group, ask an adult or school counselor about how to become involved. The circumstances under which a person dies can influence grief feelings. Bereavement is not a problem to fix, but an experience in which leaders can be companions.

How To Minister To Someone Who Is Grieving

It can help you to cope if you take care of yourself in certain small but important ways. They are part of the process of grieving. All of their family and friends learn that they were able to turn to the Catholic Church during a painful time.
