The Changing Demographics of Nursing Home Care: Greater Minority Access... Good News, Bad News

But moving to the next level of nursing home reform-- where the provision of high-quality care becomes the norm-- may be more difficult, as the coalition of industry and consumer groups that helped push the law to passage is splintering over implementation.

The Changing Demographics of Nursing Home Care: Greater Minority Access... Good News, Bad News

This is largely due to the fact that females live longer than males. Medicaid is financed jointly out of general tax revenues by the federal government and the states. The majority of expenditure on waiver services was devoted to maintaining mentally handicapped people in the community.

Caring for Frail Elderly People: Policies in Evolution

Although starting from a much smaller base, and therefore adding fewer people, the Asian and Pacific Islander population is projected to be the fastest growing racial group, with annual growth rates that may exceed 4 percent during the 1990s.

Health Equity

By 1990, more than 130 companies were marketing private long-term care insurance and the number of policies sold exceeded 1. Furthermore, African-Americans are less likely to have advance directives or to enroll in hospice, and more likely to disenroll if they do.

Care of older people: Maintaining the dignity and autonomy of older people in the healthcare setting

By 1960, it is estimated that there were some 10 to 11,000 nursing homes with 400,000 beds Vladeck 1980. However, data from other sources indicate that disability rates for Native Americans and Alaska Natives are much higher than for other groups. For example, only about 26 percent of persons with IADL impairments use formal home care services, compared to about 40 percent of persons disabled in three or more ADLs.

Providing Care to a Diverse Population

Whenever possible, offer patients appropriate translations of written material or refer them to bilingual resources. In such cases, among which nursing home costs loom large, Medicaid funding covers the shortfall between monthly personal incomes and the relevant costs, no matter what the level of monthly income. The assistance needed from formal service providers such as nursing homes, home care agencies, and personal care providers, is also a function of the resources which the elderly can draw upon in their informal support systems.

Caring for Frail Elderly People: Policies in Evolution

. In fact, many older people are relatively accepting of the prospect of death and want to make the most of their remaining years.
