James Paton, socialist (1886

They promised all possible good conduct, being undoubtedly put into great terror. Such was the fate of those two devoted servants of the Lord ; loving in their lives, and in their deaths scarcely divided — their spirits, in the crown of martyrdom, entered Glory together, to be welcomed by Williams and Harris, whose blood was shed on the same dark isle for the name and cause of Jesus. I could have defied any amount of mere penalty, but this spoke to my conscience as a message from God.

John G. Paton Apostle of Christ

I can hardly realize that nine months have rolled away since I left bonnie Scotia I How many changes will take place before I again revisit it! Paton selected a stone idol, a piece of painted wood of conical shape, a piece of bone of human leg with seven rings carved round it, which they said had the power of restoring sick people to health, and another piece of painted wood which made people sick; but they made him solemnly 62 A.

A most pathetic spectacle it was to watch these poor Natives, — when they had leisure to sit on deck, — gazing, gazing, intently and imploringly, upon the face of the Sun! I told him the whole truth as to my position and my desires. Paton were surrounded by painted savages, enveloped in the superstitions and cruelties of heathenism at its worst. Flora admits she never saw her uncle after dinner; she was taking money from his bedroom.
