Several other important sources are included in the list of texts consulted for the study of the life and travels of Gordon at the Cape, between 1777 and 1786. The wound caused him a lifelong limp. Leefde in Namaqualand, maar is daar nu uitgestorven; Gordon schoot zijn eerste en waarschijnlijk een van de laatste giraffen op 12 okt.

PERSONAL ANECDOTE Harking back to my own personal research of the SAUNDERS family — specifically of one William Frederick SAUNDERS who is our family progenitor and the Anglo-Boer War, I posed a question to one of our branch members Neels Coertse in a discussion we were having with regards cemetery recordings and the ABW, how it was that arch enemies could find themselves in a marriage — which of course was the case with my paternal great grand parents, the same William Frederick SAUNDERS and Susanna Margaretha LANDMAN. The meeting took the form of a question and answer session. Die plaas is later onder die destydse Verwoerdamskema onteien en vorm vandag deel van die Tussen die Riviere Wildtuin in die Bethulie-distrik.

Giraffa camelopardalis (Giraffe), skeleton, Robert Jacob Gordon, 1779

Argief-jaarboek vir Suid-Afrikaanse Geskiedenis, 1950, Jaargang 13, Vol. One of the most significant features of the five journeys undertaken was the naming of the Orange River in 1779, in honour of the Stadtholder William V of Orange.
