Don't be trapped by dogma--which is living with the results of other people's thinking. A person out of balance in this area may also stray into spiritual delusion accompanied by visions and fantastical religious hallucinations.

The Unfolding Now: Realizing Your True Nature through the Practice of Presence by A. H. Almaas

Most of our experience is half conscious and not comprehended. One thing that motivates human beings is the tendency to satisfy biological survival needs, which Allport referred to as opportunistic functioning. The ways we can learn the most about a subject as well as how to gain the best outcome is to observe our relationships - how do we feel about the experience - is the mind open or closed to the experience? It might mean consequently you have to let go of other ideas or wishes, but ultimately that is up to you to let them go, because you cannot progress beyond these hurdles.

So you have to trust that the dots will somehow connect in your future. Collectively, they utilise a variety of traditional and contemporary techniques that add colour to their stories, each extending their language through which a deeper and more personal understanding of the significance of this place can be reinterpreted. Each time a flower opens, we are in awe.

In the same way, care must be taken to continuously apply and test any insights gained as well as how to use them as practical tools, which in itself can expand the depth of understanding. It is always a manifestation of the nondual truth, displaying it as ordinary experience. To be means to be for another, and through the other, for oneself.
