metering: Household experiences in Germany

In consumer marketing, teleselling is now less common, and many companies now use telemarketing as one of their main ways of managing consumers. Note too that many businesses work, at least partially, through intermediaries — wholesalers, retailers, dealers and distributors. For frequency, one-time buyers were coded 1, two-time buyers 2, and so on up to 5 for 5 or more.

Heating practices and self

If those who owned the plants had secured guaranteed fuel, Texas would have been better off. We are depleting our ground water and the demands on surface water will someday force the issue. The book I referenced by Meredith Angwin argues the points I raised with a focus on the New England grid.

Assigning Blame for the Blackouts in Texas

Gone are the separate departments managing individual channels, such as mail, call centres or the e-channel, to be replaced by a team managing delivery channels. Today, virtually every function that has anything to do with consumers can use the consumer database. But in the winter, about 60 percent of homes in Texas use electricity for heating, and the other 40 percent use natural gas.
