'Accidents' poems

I was certain that my electronic beeps were every now and then music to your ears, just as they were to mine.

Claudia Rankine

Love is voluntary, not force. Fact: Although the stereotypical description does fit people in the extreme end of the spectrum, we now know that even young, thin women that don't snore can have significant obstructive sleep apnea.

100 Best Funny Poems and Limericks

For I knew though you don't know what I pray to God for you, but at least you feel it for God will be there for you always, and He carries my love with Him and let you feel it when you are down and depress.

The Wreck of the Hesperus

It didn't matter that he hit me, It don't matter if he hit my mother or father, Because the beating my heart was taking was too much, For my slim frame and still developing body to handle, As such my growth was stunted and I gained heart problems, On top of the asthma, Autism meant nothing to me, He was everything! We should strive to help our neighbour, Their good works, do not retard; Be not idle, be quite busy, Cleaning up your own backyard.
