The Gender Divide: Tracking women's state prison growth

Because the types of cases heard in federal court tend to be non-violent offenses like fraud and identity theft, the individuals serving time in federal prisons are more likely to be non-violent offenders although federal prisons do contain kidnappers, sex traffickers, drug dealers and murderers. Exploring the theory and paradigm base for wraparound fidelity. Research suggests that preexisting psychiatric disorders improve more slowly for recovering substance abusers and need to be addressed directly in treatment.

BOP: Female Offenders

Textual Records: Headquarters administrative files, 1930-37. Many will automatically label a woman who has been convicted of a crime as a bad mother simply because she has violated the law.

Incarcerated Women and Girls

Situational pressures such as threatened loss of valued relationships play a greater role in female offending Steffensmeier and Allen 1998, 16. In addition, the planning process must begin as soon as the woman begins serving her sentence, not conducted in just the final 30 to 60 days. Services, which include daily support groups, are provided on-site and elsewhere, through agreements with community providers.
