Subsistence Hunting, Alaska Department of Fish and Game

Which whale has the biggest baby? In 1771, for instance, a female sperm whale dragged Marshal Jenkins underwater when he fell from his boat, but she quickly resurfaced to spit him out.

The Nommos, Dolphin & Whale People

He landed straddling the lower jaw. They don't even hang on with their mouths; instead one of the fins on top has developed into a gripping surface that is used to clamp onto a passing whale or dolphin.

Apologetics Press

According to officials, around 100,000 pilot whales can be found off the shores of the Faroe Islands, but only 800 pilot whales are killed annually during the hunts. Commercial hunting of whales for oil was no longer profitable. When a pod of pilot whales is seen off the coast of one of the islands, a group of locals will sail out to sea.

The Truth about Whaling

Thing was on Christmas day 1846 aboard the ship Florida. Basilosaurus shows the link or intermediate between whales and their terrestrial ungulate ancestors.

Swallowed by a whale

The wind now deserted the Star of the East and for hours she lay becalmed, wallowing in a light swell.

The Truth about Whaling

And if we are talking about sperm whales, which we are most of the time, there is the deadly passage through the 30-foot jaws lined with 8-inch teeth.

What Differences Are Their Between Whales and Fish?

A blue whale baby is typically weaned at 6-7 months old at which point they have doubled in length. It might take a while. To me the Jonah story is very curiously corroborated by Jesus in the NT.
