Policy implications and analysis of the determinants of travel mode choice: an application of choice experiments to metropolitan Costa Rica

This suggests that heavy and tractor-trailer truck drivers are less likely to leave the broad CPS category of trucking than light or delivery truck drivers and driver sales workers. With the framework and categories in place, you can start outlining overall costs and benefits.

Public private partnerships in transportation: Some insights from the European experience

Noise caused from directly neighboring railways has the potential to actually lessen value to property because of the inconveniences that railroads provide because of a close proximity. Note that products are broken into categories with different levels of classification.
