Empire after 9/11 : Maira, Sunaina Marr: Amazon.sg: Books

Maira interprets individual representations in light of policy and macro analysis of empire.

Duke University Press

Maira examines how young South Asian Muslims made sense of the political and historical forces shaping their lives and developed their own forms of political critique and modes of dissent, which she links both to their experiences following September 11, 2001, and to a longer history of regimes of surveillance and repression in the United States.

Dissenting Citizenship: Orientalisms, Feminisms, and Dissenting Feelings

In Missing, Sunaina Marr Maira explores how young South Asian Muslim immigrants living in the United States experienced and understood national belonging or exclusion at a particular moment in the history of U.

Missing: Youth, Citizenship, and Empire after 9/11 : Maira, Sunaina Marr: satis.farmjournal.com.au: Books

Drawing on ethnographic research in a New England high school, Maira investigates the culture In Missing, Sunaina Marr Maira explores how young South Asian Muslim immigrants living in the United States experienced and understood national belonging or exclusion at a particular moment in the history of U. The reason it doesn't matter how bad Maira's attempt at ethnography is is that she doesn't really use her field work at all. In a deeply thoughtful and compassionate ethnography, Sunaina Marr Maira explores this question, providing one of the most compelling analyses of citizenship in contemporary America.
