For specific medical advice, diagnoses, and treatment, consult your doctor.

Hiccups: Causes, treatment, and complications

The part to blame is your diaphragm say: DIE-uh-fram. And maybe the most famous treatment — having someone jump out and scare you when you're not expecting it — helps some people wave goodbye to their hiccups.

Hiccups: Causes, treatment, and complications

Some things that irritate the diaphragm are eating too quickly or too much, an irritation in the stomach or the throat, or feeling nervous or excited. She will continue her quest against No. I adore his movies and his body of work is something that all Canadians can take proud ownership of.

Jay Baruchel

Many of these tips have been passed down through generations. This tends to be more common in men than in women.

Hiccups: Causes, treatment, and complications

The doctor may ask when the hiccups began, how often they occur, how frequent they are, whether they are happening all the time, and what a person was doing before they started.

Jay Baruchel

Most cases of hiccups will go away after a few minutes or hours with no medical treatment. Surgery, tumors, and lesions may also be risk factors. We ask you to keep your comments relevant and respectful.
