Without some kind of traditional presentation of the concepts, students are often so unsure of themselves that they feel lost.

What Causes the Seasons?

You may change your wardrobe with the seasons, grabbing a heavy coat in winter, while wearing only a light t-shirt in summer.

Changing seasons

In June, the Sun is north of the celestial equator and spends more time with those who live in the Northern Hemisphere. Days are longer in the Southern Hemisphere and shorter in the north.

What Causes the Seasons?

At latitude 23° S, called the Tropic of Capricorn, the Sun passes through the zenith at noon. So, when the North Pole tilts toward the Sun, it's summer in the Northern Hemisphere.

Magical World of Disneyland Around the Seasons (TV Episode 1966)

I assign this Microsoft Word 58kB Sep5 09 as assessment, but also as a way for students to consolidate the understandings that they have built during the guided-discovery activity. Other natural occurrences are similarly evoked.

Why the Night Sky Changes With the Seasons

In the United States and Southern Europe, there may be only 9 or 10 hours of sunshine during the day. Now, if our daily lives were governed by the sidereal clock, there would be times during the year when the sun would appear highest in the sky at noontime, but at other times of the year it would appear highest at midnight; setting at 6 a. In spring, the Sun will rise farther and farther north of east, and set farther and farther north of west, reaching the maximum around the summer solstice.
