Of the latter, nearly 30 million were Ukrainians and 30 million were of Turkic background.

Regional industrial management (1957)

This book analyzes the precarious relationship between Soviet legitimacybuilding and the consequences of rapid industrial development in the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, the most populous non-Russian republic in the USSR, during the 1920s and 1930s. For us in the Ukraine, as a result of historical circumstances, the culture of the city is Russian and the culture of the countryside is Ukrainian. As a result, the UPSR won absolute majorities at all elections.

Soviet Nationality Policy, Urban Growth, and Identity Change in the Ukrainian SSR 1923

Even as late as March 1923, Dmitrii Lebed', the second secretary of the Central Committee of the KP b U from 1920 to 1924, actively promoted the theory of the struggle of two cultures.
