A Century of Finnish Chamber Music

Enjoy an authentic Dinner à la Kalevala, taste local delicacies in the old times atmosphere. Where I am living, up in Lapland here, the Northern Lights are very dear to me. To return to what we said about Takemitsu, he was about east and west, and I think my work is south and north.

Helsinki Spring Light Chamber Music

So even though I am living very near the city, Jyväskylä is a very special kind of place in that it has quite a lot of nature inside the city, and a lot of lakes, of course. Luonnotar was completed in 1913, in response to a request from the Finnish dramatic soprano Aino Ackté, who gave the premiere that year at the Three Choirs Festival in Gloucester.

eClassical

I wanted to grow up to understand what was the idea of a symphony. . A year of study in Berlin, then another in Vienna, widened his creative horizons.

Superb Chamber Folk from The Nordic Fiddlers Bloc

Or go for modern dance at Kuopio International Dance Festival, opera at Savonlinna Opera Festival, heavy metal music at Tuska Festival in Helsinki or Sámi culture at Ijahis idja in Lapland. The Concerto was premiered early in 1904, not with Burmeister as soloist but instead a young local violin teacher, Viktor NováQek. So I am interested in impressions, too.

Kai Nieminen

Finland Festivals is a non-profit organisation that serves the culture and tourism sector, focusing on representing the collective interests of festivals, marketing and public relations, information gathering, research and training. It worked; the couple were married a few weeks after the premiere, and the first of their six daughters was born the following year. Buy a festival T-shirt, relax on the bench next to Lake Lammasjärvi or do whatever else you like.
