Reminiscences of a Scottish Gentleman

Tough and hard fighting his faith in the Confederacy never wavered through the fighting in the Indian Territory, Pea Ridge, Corinth, Holly springs, Jackson Mississippi and Thompson Station. At the crack of the piece a yell broke from the Indians, while almost simultaneously a shout arose from his people who were in the rear.

Heavy Cavalry / Dragoon Pistol

Other subjects include the siege of Petersburg, witnessing explosions at Fort Stedman, Confederate advances, and his unit's readiness in the event of attack. After the Battle of the Washita, November 27, 1868, Wynkoop charged the army with perpetrating a massacre similar to Sand Creek, and resigned his commission as Indian agent under protest. Topics include support of the Confederacy by various denominations, the suffering endured by their congregations, destruction to their churches, the clergy's loyal oratory and their service in the Confederate army, the spirit of piety in its troops, and the work of Archbishop Jean-Marie Odin 1800-1870 , as well as the American Bible Society.
