The Irish commons in October 1640 drew up a remonstrance, in the course of which they speak of the Derry plantation as 'almost destroyed' through the policy of which Bramhall was the administrator. Even the closing stanzas, while asserting the continued necessity of military force to maintain the regime, in no way condemn it.

The phrase 'Elbow grease'

Adair was deposed on 18 May 1640; these proceedings alienated the Scottish settlers. I mean till he were drest: for else so thin He stands, as if he only fed had been With consecrated Wafers: and the Host Hath sure more flesh and blood than he can boast.
