Studiolo from the Ducal Palace in Gubbio

After the loss of the eye, Federico — no stranger to conspiracies and one of the leaders that inspired to write — had removed the bridge of his nose which had been injured in the incident and eyelid.

The Plumb Board in the Missing Panel: A New Key for Understanding the Renaissance Symbolism in the Gubbio Studiolo

Inspirados por los arquitectos Alberti y Brunelleschi, los intarsiatori florentinos adoptaron la perspectiva lineal en sus composiciones.

Where Federigo Di Montefeltro once reigned

In the first volume, Olga Raggio focuses on the creation of the studiolo, Gubbio's political history and development, the achievements of Federico da Montefeltro and his role in the creation of the studiolo.

Bookseller Inventory 009959 Bibliographic Details Title: The Gubbio Studiolo and Its Conservation. Federico received a series of important visitors here in the period 1468-72, when his new palace at Urbino was in construction.

El Poder del Arte: El Studiolo de Gubbio

His studiolo in Urbino had been built on the second story of the palace, above the courtyard one floor and given the balcony view over the countryside: on the facade with the two turrets, the arched balcony on the top floor marks the studiolo location in Urbino. In his summer place the Duke would have ridden on horseback from Urbino, a trip which takes a car about an hour and a half today.
