The Warrior Ethos...defining our Profession of Arms > Joint Base Charleston > Display

What have I gotten myself into? As such, the nature and character of war is not only the most important concept for the profession of arms, it also the central understanding upon which the profession thrives or fails.

The Profession of Arms

It brings status and financial rewards. This article, in reviewing the modern development of the profession, has proposed four enduring features of the profession of arms. A final report on the dialogue, an assessment update, and recommendations to reinforce the Profession of Arms will be provided to the SecArmy and CSA in December 2011.

The Warrior Ethos...defining our Profession of Arms > Joint Base Charleston > Display

We must continue to learn, to understand, and to promote the knowledge, skills, attributes, and behaviors that define us as a profession.

The Profession of Arms

Focus will be on internal growth in order to be more effective leaders in future roles. . An ethos is more about what it means to be a member of that profession than it is about what members of the profession do.

Leadership in the Profession of Arms

For the American Warrior, it is embodied in our modern creeds. Its members possess a systematic and specialized body of military knowledge and skills acquired through education, training and experience, and they apply this expertise competently and objectively in the accomplishment of their missions. Wearing a uniform is not necessarily a prerequisite to subscribe to that ethos.
