New survey shows Protestants' loyalty flagging

The past 20 years have seen an acceleration in the drop-off, with a 20-percentage-point decline since 1999 and more than half of that change occurring since the start of the current decade. To obtain parental consent and put families at ease about the content of the survey, the parent was asked to complete the survey first. If someone is tithing simply because it makes them feel good about themselves, then that person already has their reward.

Nonconformist (Protestantism)

Previous research shows that when one parent is more involved in the , it tends to be the mother.

The Church and Mental Health: What Do the Numbers Tell Us?

They taught Sunday school, visited the poor and sick, distributed tracts, engaged in fundraising, supported missionaries, led Methodist class meetings, prayed with other women, and a few were allowed to preach to mixed audiences.

Some Black pastors have left the predominantly white Southern Baptist Convention in dismay over decisions by white leaders that they view as downplaying the problem of systemic racism. Even in the mid-1980s, about one-third of Canadians could still be found in a worship service at some point on any given week.

Survey shows wide support among Americans for COVID

I resent people deciding for me that I will like an activity because I am male. This includes people of non-Christian faiths, people of no faith, and people who may identify as Christian, but who are extremely irregularly connected to a church and who also espouse few Christian beliefs. Among Orthodox Christians, 57 percent are immigrants, and 70 percent of those immigrants arrived after 1981—many from the Middle East.

Religious Habits of U.S. Teens

Also see Bengtson, Vern L. But that does not seem to be the case: 47% of teens whose mother took the survey say they share all of her religious beliefs, and 50% of teens whose father took the survey say the same about him. Loneliness is a sickness as matter of fact because today with rages, with anger, anything bad can happen.

Isolated: single Christians feel unsupported by family

The good news is that the has gone down from 60% in 2003 to 54% in 2014. One great way to find out what your congregation and visitors are looking for is with a church membership questionnaire. For more information, see the for this report.

I attend a church that does allow gays and lesbians to be ordained. They also are more likely to pray daily, say religion is very important in their lives, and to talk to their family about religion, say grace and read scripture with their family at least sometimes.
