Mostar Urbicid by Sego Kresimir

This is a well-known war tactic: psychologically disable people by destroying everything they can identify themselves with, causing people to lose hope, get emotionally paralyzed and lose their ability to fight back. All of the Mostar hotels, schools, dormitories and colleges have been ruined. Mortal Cities: the Irreversible Disappearance of Mostar.

Readings on Urbicide

This region was very ethnically diverse, providing homes for both and. In the case of , the areas of the city that were hit hardest included neighborhoods from all socioeconomic backgrounds.

Urbicid

For the construction of the New Old Bridge, the decision was made to quarry stone from the same mountain as centuries ago, and it was rebuilt using the same technique as then; however, the bridge turned out whiter and smoother than the Mostarci and Mostarke remembered.
