Sustainable Cities: Planning the Industrial City

Local authorities also began to take more of a lead.

Feeding the Cities

The Environmental Justice Movement in Chicago WATER 11.

6 cities where police reform is shaping the race for mayor

There was self-interest too, as builders wanted profits, not better quality housing and the government-held a deep prejudice about the poor's worthiness of efforts. A Food and Drink Act was passed to attempt to improve diet. The Bureau of Markets, although intrigued by new ways of urban food marketing and distribution, promoted a traditional, no-so-revolutionary, model market system

Sustainable Cities: Planning the Industrial City

Adams, who lists reforming police and reducing crime as top priorities, faces an uphill battle against the well-funded mayor. As a result of targeting the tourist and absentee investor, festival marketplaces lack roots in the city's local economic history. For example, in the late 1970s community development corporations converted historic markets, such as Quincy Market in Boston, into festival marketplaces, but national franchises instead of local retailers occupy food stalls, restaurants, and specialty shops.

Feeding the Cities

In fact, despite technological developments, the death rate rose, and infant mortality was very high.
