Complex Structures - A Functional Perspective Berlin: Mouton de Gruyter. In respeaking, a speaker repeats and records the speech of the original speaker using a speech recognition system. A state-of-the art linguistic commentary accompanies each map, taking into account the results of modern syntactic research, as well as historical developments.

Standarddeutsche oder dialektalisierte Stimuli?

Furthermore, as some of the quantifiers themselves also show inflection depending on gender, they might have been included in the investigation. . Comrie, Munich: Max Planck Digital Library, chapter 73.

Berlin: De Gruyter Mouton, 633-649. In addressing this question, a difficult balance has to be struck between faithfulness to the original dialect on the one hand and regularization to guarantee consistency, searchability, and accessibility for non-linguists on the other hand. In such contexts, a speech recognizer that can handle both local dialects and standard language can handle a large part of the sociolinguistic repertoire.
