Plautus vol I

Vera volo loqui te, nolo adsentari mihi.

Friedrich Ritschl

Per supremi regis regnum iuro et matrem familias Iunonem, quam me vereri et metuere est par maxume, ut mi extra unum te mortalis nemo corpus corpore contigit, quo me impudicam faceret. If I deceive you in this, then, Jove almighty, I invoke thy curse upon Amphitryon for evermore. From the Earliest Times to the Battle of Ipsus Oxford.

Gesine Manuwald Publications

Glotta 60 1982 , 280-1. On the Structure and Construction of the Philippics Collection', in: T.

Friedrich Ritschl

The Mercator and Trinummus are adaptations of Philemon's Ἐμπόρος and Θησαυρός, the Mostellaria very possibly is an adaptation of his Φάσμα, the Amphitruo, perhaps, an adaptation of his Νὺξ μοκρά. Live again in fond concord as of old with thy wife Alcmena: she has done naught to merit thy reproach: my power was on her.

Ludi Romani

They were worshipped but also stood as a national symbol.
