The End of the Beginning: Revelation 21

Whilst the concepts Dumbrell develops are important to biblical studies, a number of strange inconsistencies detract from the work.

The End of the Beginning: Revelation 21

The format of the study is to take five of the major motifs that appear in Revelation 21-22, trace something of their origin and development through the OT, briefly view how they affect the NT writers, and then conclude by showing how Revelation 21-22 gives the fullest eschatological expression to the motifs. Dumbrell has sought to set Revelation 21-22 in its widest context in order to provide its fullest meaning.

The End of the Beginning: Revelation 21

Thus the final redemptive act is seen to be a creative act. In all Dumbrell successfully argues for the unity and continuity of certain divinely revealed concepts through the various ages of the OT, through the NT period, and on to providing eschatological expectations.
