Shakespeare and the English Equity Jurisdiction: The Merchant of Venice and the Two Texts of King Lear

If the plebeians clamor for grain at the beginning of Coriolanus, Shakespeare is supposed to be thinking of an event closer to home, the Midlands Insurrection of 1607. Ultimately it asks from the lover the nolo contendere of commitment: Do with me what you will. Scotland traditionally had closer ties with France than England.

Jacobean Era Divine Right Of Kings

Oxfordian arguments rely heavily on biographical allusions; adherents find correspondences between incidents and circumstances in Oxford's life and events in Shakespeare's plays, sonnets and longer poems. Buckingham explains the reluctance of Richard to appear before the crowd: When holy and devout religious men Are at their beads.
