8 Questions to Ask When Looking at Preschools

They should put the item back.

8 Questions to Ask When Looking at Preschools

The moms who were photographed asked KellyMom for a chance to bust some of the misconceptions about the TIME article. This is even more true past the first year.

8 Questions to Ask When Looking at Preschools

Don't link to screenshots or other subreddits. I am gay--it is not my choice, it is simply who I am. The contributions to this thread are valuable, as I'm sure members either entering the ECE field or exploring with the idea of this will be able to see that there is no one short answer to what educators bring to their own classrooms, rather the reflective practice that goes into implementing something new and how educators make decisions about their own practice within their own settings and contexts.

3 and 4 Year Olds

Don't hesitate to ask, as most preschools are happy to share parent references upon request. For all of the reasons Alison and Arlen detailed above, the PoA is not equitable. Are nutritious, well-balanced meals served? The exuberance and cheerfulness with which they did both of these things were identical.

They might show you spit bubbles, etc. I am not thrilled with the shot of me, but my biggest problem is with my son and his body language in the photo.

Usual

A child attending school has no choice in what the adult teacher does or does not do in their classroom. What boundary are they pushing? Perhaps there is a gap in a road made of wood blocks that a truck has to get over. And then when they want it, they get the biggest kick out of going and getting it back out of the freezer.
