The discovery agencies are well represented as a cloud, rather than being a well-defined module in the web services architecture. If budget were no problem, you could just hire a specialist for each task and let them get on with it. Occasionally, you discover a tool that does one thing perfectly.

How to Manage a Remote Team

If you continually find yourself worrying what someone is doing, then you are spending brain cycles focusing on something other than the product or customers. But good team discussion about how each member -- and the group collectively -- understands that mission will make the mission statement meaningful and useful to the team.
