Developing IBM Lotus Domino 8 Applications: Intermediate Skills Course

Ltd vision is to design subscription based hosted model for its services that would reap the advancement in new technology. Our mission is to enable enterprises with smart and innovative solutions that are simple to deploy and generates substantial business value in a very short period of time. As Jasper points out, XPages is the new sparkling way to do this, but it might not be an option for existing systems It requires the latest version of Domino server.

Shahidoon Softech Pvt. Ltd.

You will be able to use the features and functions of IBM Lotus Domino Designer 9 to analyze their project needs and determine whether to use form-based architecture to the XPage-based architecture, plan and style user interface enhancements, integrate their XPage application with multiple databases, and debug an existing XPage application. Stackoverflow is a good site to get help as there are many experienced Devs watching the site. There are more than 850 projects on OpenNTF and many different types of projects which makes it sometimes hard to find the projects certain types of developers are looking for.

The basic technique for this is to have 2 design elements with the same alias, hide one from notes and the other from the web. Any idea how long is the learning curve of web based applications in domino? We suggest a modular approach and will reuse existing code when appropriate. There's no definitive path to doing this stuff, because every application is different.

OpenNTF contributors can request spaces if they have contributed several projects and have planned to contribute more projects. This will make it a bit easier to make it functional from both the client and the web browser. The only advice is to avoid complicated scenarios at this early stage as you get to know how the server works, and how it behaves with browsers.
